Improving Outcomes Statewide

Given the small number of secure track-eligible youth and their highly specialized needs, pooling resources will help to:

- Ensure the availability of high-quality programs in different regions that are culturally responsive, trauma-informed, age appropriate, as close to home as possible, centered on youth and family engagement, and based on positive youth development
- Minimize the chances of net-widening
- Reduce time in secure facilities by providing enriched services & strong community partnerships
- Avoid the risk of transfer to criminal court by maximizing limited resources

One Step at a Time

In the short term...

County estimates need for upcoming year based on historical info and current population

County works with local stakeholders to determine local capacity to meet anticipated need

Counties with capacity that can be shared (beds or services) exchange information through Consortium

Consortium facilitates the development of standardized rates and MOUs

Consortium assists with matching counties who need beds or services with those who can provide it

Consortium provides standardized MOU for counties to use on a case-by-case partnership

Eventually...

County JJCC subcommittee develops local plan and submits to OYCR

Counties who cannot provide beds or services locally go to Consortium to find potential partners

Consortium establishes standardized rates (may vary by region) and program guidelines/agreements

Counties who need "guaranteed" beds or services might pay higher rate upfront

County notifies Consortium when a secure bed or service is needed

Consortium assists with finalizing arrangement; MOUs already in place

All Consortium members have access to Best Practices Training/TA
