I. DEFINITIONS

A. Telecommuting

Telecommuting is an alternative work mode in which an employee works exclusively in a non-County location. Telecommuting is not to be confused with alternative work schedules or flexible schedules.

B. Teleworking

Teleworking occurs when an employee who is assigned to a principal County work location is approved to also work in a remote workspace pursuant to a Telework Agreement.

C. Teleworker

A teleworker is an employee who has entered into a teleworking arrangement by way of a Telework Agreement. A teleworker may be required to be available to appear at the principal County work location at the request of the department head or designee.

D. Remote Worker

A remote worker is an employee who has entered into a telecommuting arrangement by way of a Remote Worker Agreement. A remote worker has a principal non-County work location, and instead may consider another set remote location (e.g., the employee’s home) as their principal work location. There is no expectation of the remote worker having to appear onsite unless it is specifically required by the department head or designee and is within the spirit of the Remote Worker Agreement.

II. PURPOSE

The purpose of this Teleworking and Telecommuting Policy (Policy) is twofold: 1) it provides a discussion of considerations and observations that department heads should consider when implementing a teleworking or telecommuting program within their respective departments, and 2) it establishes official County policy regarding implementation, standards, and accountability.

While neither teleworking nor telecommuting is a right, the County of El Dorado (County) is supportive of and will provide such opportunities for employees consistent with business needs.

III. AUTHORITY

The County Board of Supervisors has ultimate authority to adopt and change this policy. However, the County Board of Supervisors delegates administration of this Policy to each department head or designee, with general oversight by the Department of Human Resources and Chief Administrative Office. The County Board of Supervisors further delegates authority to the Department of Human Resources, with Chief Administrative Officer approval, to draft a Telework Request Form, Telework Agreement, a Remote Work Agreement, and any other forms or agreements applicable to this Policy.

IV. POLICY

All County employees shall have an approved Telework Agreement or Remote Work Agreement under this Policy prior to telecommuting or teleworking. A County department may elect to include additional requirements, guidelines, or procedures, provided they are not in conflict with this Policy. Such additions must be reviewed and approved by the Department of Human Resources prior to going into effect. Additionally, employee salary, benefits, and work status shall not change due to a telecommuting arrangement. Lastly, removal or denial of a telecommuting or teleworking arrangement shall not be deemed a punitive action.

A. Telework Agreement

A teleworking arrangement may be entered into by way of a Telework Agreement. Employees who telework may be required to report to work at the Principal County work location on teleworking days, if requested by the department head or designee. In such circumstances, the department head or designee shall provide a minimum notice of two (2) hours to the employee, unless the Telework Agreement explicitly states a greater or lesser period of notice. Employees with active Telework Agreements may also be required to telework during a building closure of their principal County work location or otherwise at the discretion of the department head or designee. In the event of a direction to telework during a building closure, such direction shall be deemed a reassignment to a work site in the same geographic area.

Requests by employees to change their scheduled telework days should be reasonably accommodated by their department head or designee, to the extent that such changes do not adversely affect the business needs of the department. Employees must obtain prior written authorization to change a scheduled telework day.

B. Remote Work Agreement

A telecommuting arrangement may be entered into by way of a Remote Work Agreement. This Agreement shall only be made for employees who have a principal non-County work location, and the nature of the work to be performed by the employee does not require regular presence at a County work location. The principal work location for this Agreement type would most likely be the employee's home. There is no expectation of the remote worker having to appear onsite unless it is specifically required by the department head or designee and is allowed by the Remote Work Agreement. Further, all Remote Work Agreements shall be reviewed and approved by the Chief Administrative Officer (CAO).

C. Mandatory Policy Review and Training

Prior to approval of the respective telecommuting or teleworking agreement, the employee shall be required to review all policies and complete all mandatory training outlined in said agreement.

D. Remote Work Location and Work Environment

The employee must have a remote workspace suitable for performing official County business as outlined in the respective telecommuting or teleworking agreement, and one which meets all health, safety, and risk management standards as outlined in Section III.E.

E. Health, Safety, and Risk Management

The employee's remote workspace must comply with the requirements outlined in the respective telecommuting or teleworking agreement. Additionally:

1. If an employee has a work-related accident at their remote location during normal work hours and while conducting authorized County business, he/she will be subject to the same County rules and regulations regarding work-related accidents and must report the incident immediately to his/her department head or designee. The County's Department of Human Resources Risk Management Division will investigate work-related accidents reported. Further, in its investigation efforts, and after a 24-hour notice has been provided to the employee, the County reserves the right to perform an onsite inspection during regularly scheduled work hours of the designated remote workspace where the incident occurred.

2. Such injuries may be covered by workers' compensation if the injuries arise out of the course of employment (Labor Code section 3600). Existing policies for workers' compensation apply, such as treatment by the County-contracted health provider if the employee does not already have a designated physician name for worker's compensation-covered health services on file with the County, or the need for appropriate paperwork to be completed by the County before visiting the healthcare provider. The County assumes no additional liability for injuries to a telecommuting or teleworking employee, except as required by existing law. The employee is liable for injuries to 3rd parties who enter the remote workspace.
3. All files, records, papers, or other material created while telecommuting or teleworking are County property. Telecommuting or teleworking employees and their department head or designee shall identify any confidential, private, or personal information and records to be accessed, and ensure appropriate safeguards are used to protect them, in accordance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, the Privacy and Security Rule Policy and Procedures, and any other relevant confidentiality laws, rules, regulations, or policies. Employees shall work in private locations when handling confidential or sensitive material. Employees should also consider disabling the listening capability of smart speakers, virtual assistants, or other listening-enabled devices unless needed to assist with official County business. Departments may prohibit employees from printing confidential information in remote workspaces to avoid breaches of confidentiality.
4. Employees may not disclose confidential or private files, records, material, or information, and may not allow access to County networks or databases to anyone who is not authorized to have such access.
5. The California Public Records Act applies to all County employees, including employees who telecommute or telework. Public records include any writing containing information relating to the conduct of the public's business prepared, owned, used, or retained by the County regardless of physical form or characteristic. Public information means the contents of a public record. Upon receipt of an appropriate request, and subject to authorized exemptions, a telecommuting or teleworking employee must permit inspection and examination of any public record or public information in his/her custody, or any segregable portion of a public record,
