CLASS CHARACTERISTICS

This is a multi-level professional classification series in which incumbents may be assigned to any of four (4) levels, depending upon experience, proficiency gained, and the complexity and sensitivity of assigned cases. Incumbents must be a member in good standing of the California State Bar Association. Positions in these classes are flexibly- staffed and are normally filled by advancement from the lower-level classification.

Child Support Attorney I: This is the entry/trainee level classification in the Child Support Attorney class series. Employees at this level receive in-service training, and are given detailed instructions in the performance of routine duties related to legal work in child support civil and criminal cases. As requisite skills and knowledge are developed, greater independence and the full scope of responsibility are exercised. The work is usually supervised while in progress and fits an established structure or pattern. Exceptions or changes in procedures are explained in detail as they arise. As experience is gained, assignments become more varied and are performed with greater independence.

Child Support Attorney II: This is the fully qualified, journey-level classification in the Child Support Attorney class series. Employees at this level require specific child support legal experience and less supervision and review to complete assignments. Positions may be permanently allocated to level II-level due to the nature of the work. Positions at this level receive only occasional instruction or assistance as new or unusual situations arise and are fully aware of the operating procedures and policies of the work unit. As experience is gained, assignments become more varied and are performed with greater independence.

Child Support Attorney III: This is the advanced journey/lead-level classification in the Child Support Attorney class series. Employees at this level are expected to perform assignments that cover the entire range of child support litigation and advice activities, may provide lead supervision over other attorneys, and may assist in training less experienced attorneys. Positions may be permanently allocated to level III-level due to the nature of the work. Assignments are given with general guidelines, and incumbents are responsible for establishing objectives, timelines, and methods to deliver legal services. Work may be reviewed upon completion for soundness, appropriateness, and conformity to policy and requirements. As experience is gained, assignments become more varied and are performed with greater independence.

Child Support Attorney IV: This is the highest, non-supervisory level classification in the Child Support Attorney class series. Employees at this level are subject matter experts who are regularly assigned the most complex child law and child support cases for litigation. Incumbents also perform legal research on complex child law and child support issues, advise on establishing departmental procedures for prosecuting such cases, and perform as lead attorneys on cases requiring more than one attorney. Positions in this classification require extensive experience and judgment to ensure the efficient and effective prosecution of assigned cases. The work involves problem-solving of unique issues or increasingly complex problems without precedent and/or structure. Assignments are given with general guidelines and incumbents are responsible for establishing objectives, timelines, and methods to deliver legal services.

The Child Support Attorney IV is distinguished from the Supervising Child Support Attorney in that the primary duty of the latter is supervision and direction of a unit of Child Support Attorneys.

Positions in the Child Support Attorney class series are flexibly staffed. Positions at the II-level are normally filled by advancement from the I-level; similarly, positions at the III-level are normally filled by advancement from the II-level; and positions at the IV-level are normally filled by the III-level at the discretion of the Department Head. Progression to each higher classification level is subject to all of the following (i) management affirmation that the incumbent is performing the full range of duties assigned; (ii) management approval for progression to the next higher level in the series; (iii) satisfactory work and office performance at the current classification level; and (iv) the incumbent meeting the minimum qualifications for the next classification.
