RE: BOARD OF SUPERVISORS AGENDA ITEM NO 19-0170 RE
JUVENILE DETENTION AND TREATMENT FACILITY

Dear Supervisor Novasel:

As you are aware, during my tenure as District Attorney I have been an aggressive advocate on behalf of all of El Dorado County, in particular to our children. We have implemented crime prevention efforts like Project LEAD and supported at risk children with the Snowball shopping event. It is my belief these efforts and all others must be pursued holistically and with a view toward the long term. As you are also well aware, this has sometimes not been the case in this County. Occasionally, well intentioned interests have sometimes persuaded the County to engage in efforts that neither benefit the County as a whole nor are in its' long term best interests. The nearly vacant juvenile facility in South Lake Tahoe, while entirely well intentioned, was justified based on faulty projections. Historic numbers show that the exceptionally well built facility has a high annual operating expense and yet very few occupants. My hope is the County will avoid repeating this type of error.

Agenda Item 19-0170 seeks authorization for construction of a 20 or 30 bed Placerville Juvenile Detention and Treatment Facility at a cost of 15.5 to 18 million, and closure of the existing two juvenile facilities, located in Placerville and South Lake Tahoe. Although partially funded by other sources, this new facility will still cost the County 5 to 8 million, plus future operating costs. Part of the original justification for a new Juvenile Hall was based on a 2014 needs assessment that was considered by the BOS when it originally voted to approve moving forward with this project back in June, 2017. It was stated in this 2014 report that juvenile justice system characteristics indicate that the trends (arrests, bookings, and delinquent ADP) experienced at the facility in the past three years will not change significantly over the next 15 – 20 years.

However, the legal landscape, arrest trends, and demographics all point to significant reduction in Juvenile Hall housing needs. In March, 2018, the Center for Juvenile and Criminal Justice released a report on the continuing decline of juvenile facility populations, which coincides with a continuing drop in youth arrests, which have fallen continuously since 2007. In the last 10 years, the California Division of Juvenile Justice inmate population has fallen from 10,000 to around 660. Its annual budget is down 70 percent. Eight of its 11 detention facilities have closed. These statistics also hide another misconception about “juvenile” facilities statewide - that only 146 of the 661 “juvenile” inmates are under the age of 18.

The juvenile arrest data in El Dorado County shows a downward trend as well. According to the 2014 Vanir Report, in 2013 there were 349 misdemeanor arrests and 93 felony arrests. These are significantly down from the 2004 arrest numbers of 643 misdemeanor arrests and 298 felony arrests – collectively a 46 % drop in arrest rates.

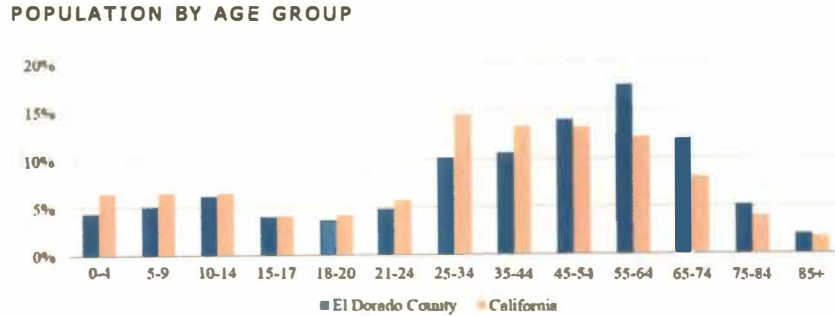

(Vanir Report – 2014)

These trends have continued over the last several years as well. According to data provided by the CAO today, in January, 2010, the average daily juvenile population in Placerville was 33 and in Tahoe 24. In 2019, those numbers have dropped nearly 65% into an average daily population in Placerville of 13 and in Tahoe to 5.

Furthermore, demographically El Dorado County is lower than the state average on population by age group for those under 18, and much higher than average for those age 45 and older.

This trend is also consistent with the projected falling population trends for El Dorado County “at-risk” juvenile base ages 10-17.

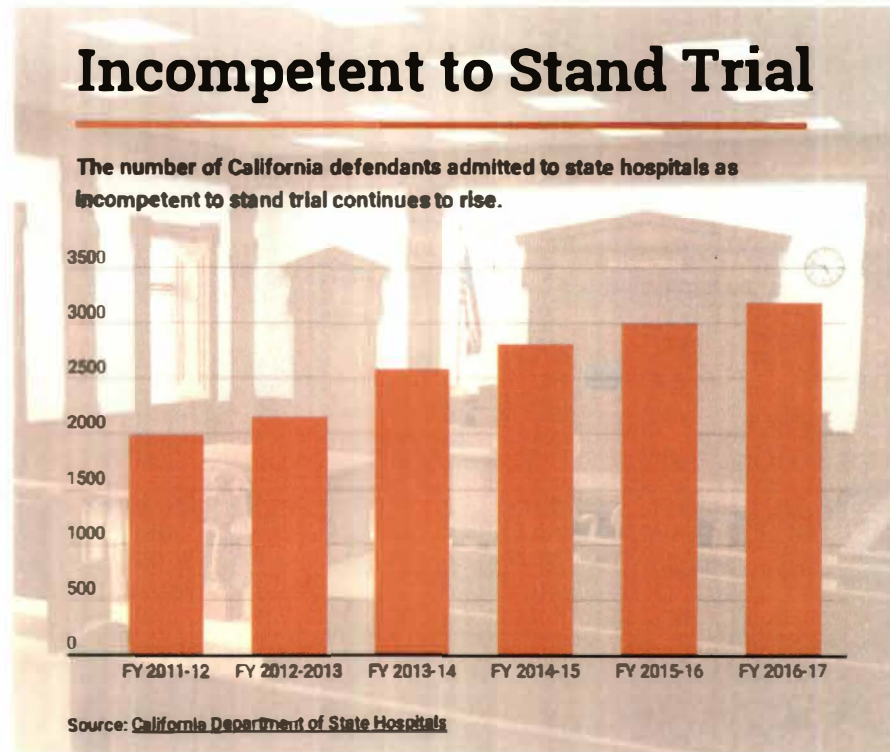

El Dorado County Projected Population Trends 2010 - 2034
Year	Projected Juvenile Population Ages 10 - 17		Projected Total El Dorado County Population
	Number	Percent (%) of Population
2010	20,525	11.3%	180,921
2014	19,097	10.5%	182,360
2019	18,524	9.3%	198,904
2024	17,813	8.2%	217,299
2029	19,614	8.5%	234,485
2034	21,968	9.0%	245,388
% Change 2010-2034	7.0%		35.6%

The trends we see in juvenile justice are not surprising. There has been a major shift in the criminal justice system for years for both juveniles, as well as adults. Not only a reduction in punishment and jail time for many crimes, including most theft and drug crimes, but also an increased focus on treatment and rehabilitation.

An additional trend in the criminal justice system has been and continues to be finding a better way to handle those criminals with mental health issues. Far too often, California's default mental health institutions are jails and prisons. Close to a third of California's inmates have a documented serious mental illness according to the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. In the past five years, the number of people in California who were deemed incompetent to stand trial after arrest - and ordered to state hospitals for treatment - increased by 60 percent, state figures show.

A few decades ago, fewer than half of state hospital patients came from the criminal justice system. Today more than 90 percent of them do - with more than a fifth of those individuals found incompetent to stand trial. That said, many experts believe state hospital stays are so restrictive and expensive that solutions to the crisis must be found elsewhere. Juvenile Hall is no different.

As you can see, El Dorado County juvenile criminal justice trends are: toward fewer arrests, toward a population getting older not younger, less punishment and more treatment, and toward reducing incarceration, including those with mental illness. The solutions for various juvenile justice problems are not easy, but it seems clear that we should think long and hard about the need to increase and upgrade our Juvenile Hall facilities when all the trends point to a need that is lessening in such a drastic manner.

The Board should authorize the 20-bed facility which is more consistent with the trend toward reduced juvenile justice facility needs. Further, the Board should direct staff to expeditiously develop a workable plan to repurpose the South Lake Tahoe facility as soon as it is available.

Thank you for your consideration of the above information.

Very truly yours,

California's Local Juvenile Facility Populations Continue to Decline in 2017

Brian Goldstein

Published: March 8, 2018

In 2017, California's local juvenile justice facilities showed continued drops in their populations. Newly released data from California's Board of State and Community Corrections (BSCC) show that the total average daily populations of California's juvenile halls and camps, from June 2016 to June 2017, declined by 5.1 percent.

This continues a long-standing trend for California's juvenile justice systems. CJCJ has previously reported on California's precipitous drop in youth arrests, which have fallen continuously since 2007. Most recently, California saw approximately 9,200 fewer arrests of young people in 2016 compared to 2015. In addition, California's costly state youth correctional system, the Division of Juvenile Justice, has experienced significant drops in its population, which is estimated at approximately 615 during fiscal year 2017-18.

The new county-level population data from the BSCC show a continued drop in the number of youth detained and confined locally through June 2017. The BSCC gathers this information from counties and makes the data accessible through its juvenile detention profile survey. The average daily population at county juvenile halls has dropped over 4 percent, while the number of youth in county camps/ranches has dropped over 7 percent (Table 1). The total county juvenile hall and camp/ranch capacity remained effectively flat during this period of decline.

Consequently, California's counties continue to have significant unused juvenile and camp/ranch bed capacity (Table 2). As of June 2017, there is a total of 5,331 unused juvenile hall bed capacity and 2,864 unused camp/ranch bed capacity, for a total of 8,195 empty beds in local facilities. While this is a one-month snapshot from 2017, subject to changing crime trends and population flows, it nevertheless aligns with California's ongoing positive juvenile justice trends and the potential for local alternatives to the state's failing youth correctional system.
